INDIGENOUS SOCIAL AND EMOTIONAL WELLBEING PORTFOLIO – EVALUATION AND IMPLEMENTATION SCIENCE PARTNERS

ISSUE DATE:	13 MARCH 2024
EXPRESSION OF INTEREST DUE:	9 APRIL 2024
LODGEMENT ADDRESS:	Via online application portal https://www.grantinterface.com/Home/Logon?urlkey=movember

1 EOI PURPOSE

Movember seeks to engage Evaluation and Implementation Science Partners (EISPs) in each of Aotearoa New Zealand, Australia, and Canada to form a consortium that will collaboratively scope, design, plan, deliver and report on monitoring & evaluation of Movember's Indigenous Social and Emotional Wellbeing (SEWB) Portfolio.

Movember will be making a significant investment to strengthen the social and emotional wellbeing of Indigenous boys, men, and their communities across Aotearoa New Zealand, Australia, and North America (comprising Canada and the United States of America).

To do this, we are proposing an approach that builds voice, capability, and power within Indigenous communities. The Indigenous SEWB Portfolio consists of four mutually reinforcing initiatives:

- Indigenous Men's Health: A Community Empowerment Initiative
- Indigenous Men's Wellbeing Innovation Initiative
- Reclaiming our Voice: Profiling of the Strengths of Indigenous Men
- Indigenous Brotherland Network

These initiatives are based on the growing evidence that restoration of Indigenous knowledge systems and the capacity for self-determination are essential for healing and supporting SEWB.

A critical component of the program model is the SEWB Support Team comprising Movember, Community Assistance Partners and EISPs. The aim of the SEWB Support Team is to strengthen and develop the voice, capability, and power of funded Indigenous communities to design, deliver and evaluate solutions that work for their community.

Multiple providers will be engaged to form the global SEWB Support Team and will each be required to work collaboratively to codesign the monitoring and evaluation approach that will support the Initiative. Aspects of project support where the EISPs are expected to take a leading role include building implementation science & evaluation capability/capacity within funded communities and building evidence related to implementation and evaluation.

We invite EOIs from organisations with Indigenous leadership and Indigenous team membership that seek to lead project level monitoring & evaluation activities within their own region and contribute collaboratively to the development of the SEWB Initiative's overarching evaluation framework.

We also invite EOIs from organisations with strong implementation science expertise, experience evaluating place-based initiatives, and significant experience working with Indigenous communities, that would take a lead role designing an overarching cross-country evaluation framework.
