INDIGENOUS SOCIAL AND EMOTIONAL WELLBEING
PORTFOLIO COMMUNITY ASSISTANCE PARTNERS –
BUILDING VOICE, CAPABILITY AND POWER OF FUNDED PROJECTS

ISSUE DATE	14 MARCH 2024
EXPRESSION OF INTEREST DUE:	EXTENDED to 5pm (AEST) 23 APRIL 2024
LODGEMENT ADDRESS:	Via online application portal https://www.grantinterface.com/Home/Logon?urlkey=movember

1 EOI PURPOSE

Movember is seeking to engage Community Assistance Partners (CAPs) in each of Canada, Aotearoa New Zealand and Australia to form a consortium that will collaboratively scope, design, plan and deliver a capability building program to support project teams that are shortlisted and/or funded under Movember's Indigenous Social and Emotional Wellbeing (SEWB) Portfolio.

Movember will be making a significant investment to strengthen the social and emotional wellbeing of Indigenous boys, men, and their communities across Aotearoa New Zealand, Australia, and North America (Canada and the United States of America).

To do this, we are proposing an approach that builds voice, capability, and power within Indigenous communities. The Indigenous SEWB Portfolio consists of four mutually reinforcing initiatives:

- Indigenous Men's Health: A Community Empowerment Initiative
- Indigenous Men's Wellbeing Innovation Initiative
- Reclaiming our Voice: Profiling the Strengths of Indigenous Men
- Indigenous Brotherland Network

These initiatives are based on the growing evidence that restoration of Indigenous knowledge systems and the capacity for self-determination are essential for healing and supporting SEWB.

A critical component of the program model is the SEWB Support Team comprising:

- Movember;
- CAPs; and
- Evaluation and Implementation Science Partners.

The aim of the SEWB Support Team is to strengthen and develop the voice, capability, and power of funded Indigenous communities to design, deliver and evaluate solutions that work for their community.

Multiple providers will be engaged to form the global SEWB Support Team and will each be required to work collaboratively to codesign the monitoring and evaluation approach that will support the Indigenous SEWB Portfolio. Aspects of practical support and technical expertise where CAPs are likely to take a leading role include: providing social innovation expertise, including capacity building related to strategies, methods and practice; codesign methods, facilitation and practice; delivering evidence based Indigenous men's leadership development training to strengthen Indigenous men's leadership and role modelling capacity within communities; innovative community engagement strategies; and leading a series of ongoing knowledge sharing opportunities.

We invite EOIs from organisations with Indigenous leadership and Indigenous team membership that seek to lead capability building activities in North America (Canada and the USA), with a recognition that multiple providers will be engaged to form the global SEWB Support Team and will each be required to work collaboratively to codesign the overarching capability building program that will support the Portfolio.
